Applicants must have student status and be available to work in Paris between 3-6 months.

The OECD's Centre for Educational Research and Innovation (CERI) is looking for interns to join two innovative projects:

Trends Shaping Education

What does it mean for education that our societies are increasingly diverse? How is global economic power shifting towards new countries? In what ways are the skills required in the world of work changing?

This work brings together international evidence to give policy makers, researchers, and educational leaders a robust, non-specialist source to inform strategic thinking and stimulate reflection on the challenges facing education. In 2018-19 the Trends team will be beginning the production of the 2019 edition of Trends Shaping Education 2016, as well as producing issues in the Spotlight series.

21st Century Children

What is the nature of childhood in the 21st century? How can schools work together with parents and communities to protect and guide children while still allowing them the flexibility to make their own mistakes?

This work brings together multi-disciplinary research to help guide countries as they share experiences and common challenges. In 2018-19 the team will be working with experts to develop an analytic framework and with countries to identify best practices.
